

WHY IS THIS IMPORTANT

Corruption perception of Ukraine by the international community influences country's business environment in general and the way every local company runs its business in particular

When potential investors see expenses on “lobbying” their interest in the potential project financing fades away

Companies which are not involved in corruption schemes and transparently conduct their business and operations can easier enter new markets, compete with influential players and attract foreign partners

In long-term perspective refusal to be involved in corruption schemes costs less than participation in them
